

The Voice

Delta Kappa Gamma promotes professional and personal growth of women educators and excellence in education.

Being Open to Opportunities

Opportunities rarely come with a flashing neon sign. Life is full of chances, but we often miss them because we're not paying attention. Being open to opportunities means having a mindset that welcomes new experiences, ideas, and connections. It involves being receptive to both the unexpected and the obvious. By staying curious and open-minded, you allow yourself to see endless opportunities.

Being open requires a mix of flexibility and boldness. Flexibility helps you adjust when a plan goes sideways or when the chosen route takes an unexpected detour. Boldness allows you to step out of your comfort zone, push your boundaries, and explore the unknown. It's about developing a mindset that embraces possibilities instead of resisting change or sticking to the status quo. Each of these opportunities contributes to your personal growth and resilience.

The truth is, you can't predict where every opportunity will lead you. However, being open-minded gives you the chance to evaluate each one fairly. Some opportunities may fade away, while others could lead to bigger things. Keep your mind curious and focused because amazing things are just ahead of you.

There are seven broad categories of opportunities available within the Ohio State Organization (OHSO) of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International. The seven are: leadership, connections, membership, activism, communications, financial, and recognition. Click on the link below to discover the opportunities that await you as a valued member.

Opportunities are rarely offered; they're seized. ~ Sheryl Sandberg

Energetically,
Dr. Molly Helmlinger, Beta Kappa
OHSO State President